SPECIAL GUESTS AND PRR KIDS

“We read, we lead, we serve.”

This is a BIG WEEK in PRR!

- We will have a special visitor to PRR on Thursday!
- Some of you in PRR may remember Miss Margaret of Project Peanut Butter!

More for Project Peanut Butter!

- Believe it or not....this summer at a conference, Ms. Fitzpatrick showed the PRR Kid's Videos on Project Peanut Butter!
- Many of the grownups who watched PRR's videos bought some of the PPB Cards and Crafts PRR Kids made for Project Peanut Butter.
- Between Blackhurst and Lincoln PRR crafts, another $60 was collected!

When Miss Margaret Comes to PRR...

- PRR Kid's can present the extra money to her for Project Peanut Butter. That's enough for food for two more African children to get well!!
- Miss Margaret recently visited Malawi, Africa and she has pictures about Project Peanut Butter from her trip to share with PRR Kids!!

Special Guests to PRR

- People who visit PRR are “volunteers”.
- What is a “volunteer”?
- Why are “volunteers” valuable to St. Charles and the community?
Why are they important to PRR?

Special Guests to PRR are Volunteers!

- ❑ Volunteers do not get paid for doing a job.
- ❑ Volunteers give their time and talents to their community.
- ❑ Volunteers help other people, animals, and other good causes because they want to serve others.

How should PRR treat Guests to PRR?

- What are some things to think about when PRR has special guests?
- Can you name four things?
- Make a class list of your four ideas and post it on the PRR class wall.

How does Big 3 fit in when Guests come to PRR?

- Take one minute and talk about this big idea as a team.

Introducing PRR to Special Guests

- It is polite to introduce yourself when meeting someone for the first time. This makes people feel welcomed!
- When you introduce yourself you should tell a couple of things about yourself:
 - Your first name
 - Your grade you are in

When the PRR Guest is ready to leave PRR...

- How can PRR show our guests we appreciated them giving up their time to come to PRR to help us learn something new?
- What will make our guests want to come back again to PRR?

Practice for tomorrow!

- Take a couple of minutes as a group and practice introducing yourself to the PRR Guests that are coming tomorrow.
- Each PRR Kid should stand up and tell their name and grade in a speaking voice.
- This will help you know what is expected of you tomorrow. This will help you know what PRR guests expect of us!

Our Goal for this week in PRR:

- Work as a team to learn and enjoy the PRR Guest Speaker this week.
- Welcome our guest.
- Show your appreciation to the PRR guest.

You are a “Bucketfiller” when you do all these things!!

PRR's Motto:

We read, we lead, we serve!”

Working as a team will make our guests feel welcomed!
